Help victims of Domestic Abuse
start saving lives now

You have been specifically selected to help your community.

We are looking for local businesses that can assist in a campaign to stop Domestic Violence and help victims to seek the help they so desperately need.

Many victims do not have access to the outreach support they need but do visit businesses like yours. Dentists, Pharmacies and Hairdressers have been specially selected. Please do not disregard this letter, you could help to save a life.

Many victims live with domestic abuse, and many die at the hands of their abuser.

We need your help to offer support to these people.

Janine ('J9') Mundy was one of those victims.

Her husband murdered her on the 27th June 2003, in Camborne, Cornwall. Janine was the mother to two young boys who are now being cared for by her family. Her family supports this programme to raise awareness and to help victims escape their abusers before it is too late.

What can you do?

- Display information in your premises, which is available to your customers.
- Train one or more of your staff in the awareness of domestic violence.
- When trained display the  logo in a prominent position, so those victims know where they can obtain the relevant information, to access the support they need.

Devon & Cornwall Constabulary will arrange for your staff to be trained and will provide leaflets and information packs.

What can you do now?

- Display the information enclosed in a prominent position that is easily accessible to your customers who need this information.
- We will contact you to advise you when training will be available to your staff.
- When trained display the  logo and start helping to save lives.
